

Homework 8
Perspectives on the Evolution of Structures
Case Studies

By necessity the course can only cover a limited number of structures and engineers. In your final project you will soon be covering and critiquing your own structures and potentially engineers.

To give you a broader introduction to contemporary engineering, two case studies on two engineers have been prepared.

In your final project groups select either the

Baker Case Study or the
Nair Case Study

And provide answers to the questions in the case study.
